

Fun with Frankenstein

Join us for a fun set of literacy and writing activities!

Did you know that Frankenstein was written by a teenager?

Mary Shelley wrote the story of Frankenstein as part of a friendly writing competition among friends.

Be inspired by her writing to both read more (and make some lovely bookmarks), as well as to start writing your very own spooky stories!

In this printable pack you will find:

- Two Coloring Page Bookmark Designs with Fun Facts
- 3 Creative Writing Prompts

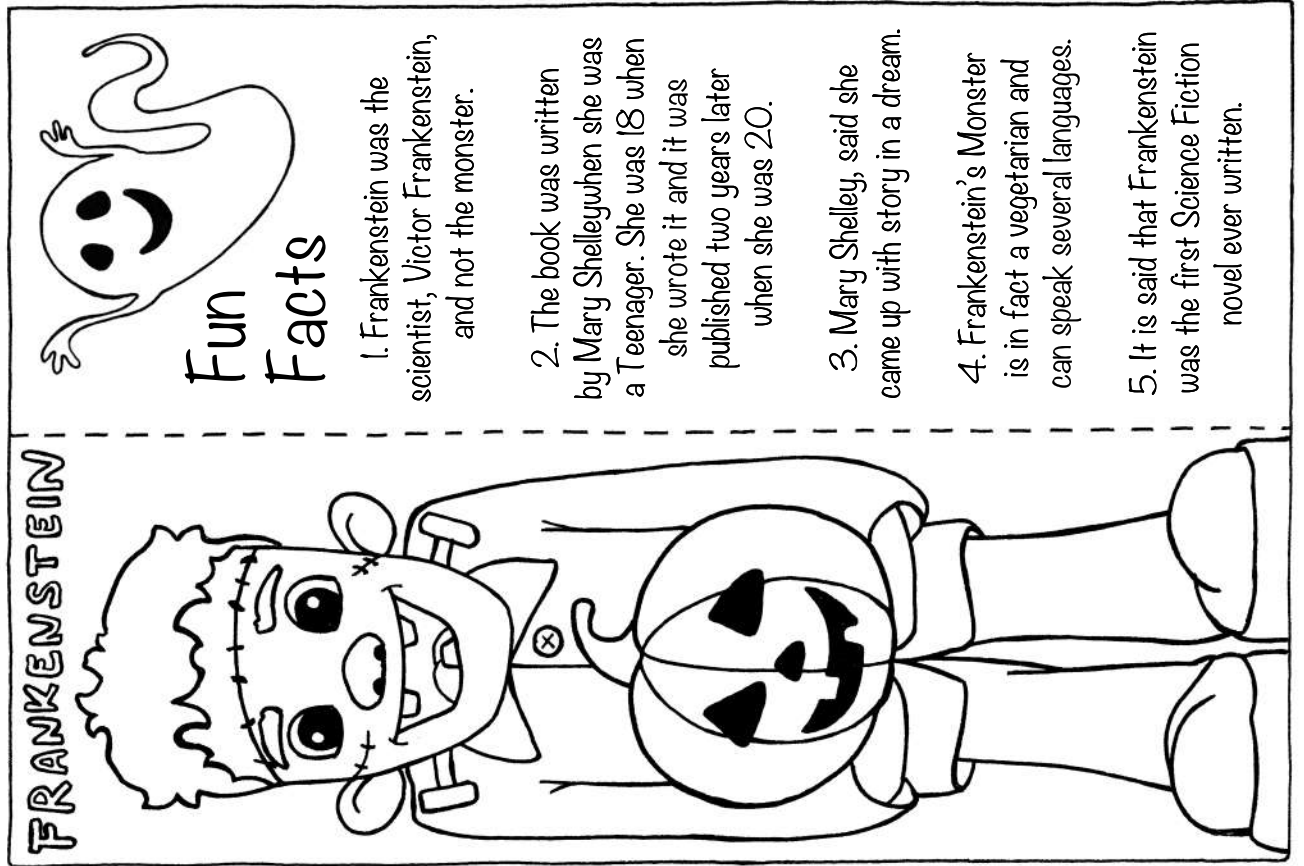

Educational benefits of these activities:

- Learn some basic facts about Mary Shelley and Frankenstein.
- Get creative coloring and assembling our bookmarks – a great time to hone in on fine motor skills needed to both color and cut. As well as some lovely zen time to let your mind wander.
- Once completed, use your new bookmarks to mark your space in your favorite stories.
- Hone your writing skills with some creative story prompts or use to the sheet to practice some spooky spellings.
